DOROTHY DIX

Overgenerous Mother Finds She's Raised Ingrate Child

Dear Miss Dix: If you would print this letter, and your comment, it might help a dear friend of mine.

Loretta, my friend, has been a wonderful mother to her family. She has worked hard to bring up her fatherless children and has raised three daughters. Two of them are fine girls, but the third, Gloria, is hopeless. She's married, but hates her sisters and mother. She infinitely prefers her mother-in-law, who is a fine woman, it's true, but don't you think a mother should come first?

When the girl's baby was born, it was Loretta who stayed with her, and she has done so with all the other children—there are now four.

I think Gloria is ashamed that her mother worked. She is now trying to climb the social ladder, where a hard-working mother is no asset. Gloria talks about her mother and sisters in a most insulting manner; sometimes she actually shocks strangers, even those to whom the family is unknown.

and two guests, Mrs. Marguerite Harris and Mrs. Marie Holt.

Mrs. Pod Rogers Hostess to Kathleen Mallory Circle

Mrs. Pod Rogers entertained the Kathleen Mallory Missionary Circle in her home Tuesday evening February 28.

After a short business session, Mrs. Hervey Holt concluded the Mission study, "World Within a Word."

A dessert plate with coffee was served to the following: Mesdames: Orval Taylor, Earl Hervey, L. B. Jordan, Andy Andrews, Harold Brents, Jewel Moore, Cecil O'Steen, George Thompson, McDowell Turner, Grady Burton, Hervey Holt and Jack Hogg.

Admitted: Mrs. Louis Sutton, Hope.

Discharged: Mrs. Earl Cooley, Rt. 1, Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. James Willis announce the arrival of a baby boy 2-29-36.

What are your suggestions? A. F.

Answer: Among the advantages that you say Loretta gave her family is that "she never asked them to do anything and always gave them as much as she could." This system hasn't work with Gloria at all. What she needed was good old fashioned spanking when she first exhibited signs of bad temper—the time was undoubtedly in the cradle. The girl has now grown to be an obnoxious, mean-spirited soul who will reap nothing but dislike from her antics.

No Drawback
Her ascent up the social ladder would be more effective if she admitted the debt she owes her mother. Filial feelings are no drawback in society, or anywhere else.

Loretta weakens her own position by being available whenever there's work to be done. It's time she began to live for herself, which will have the dual result of gaining respect from her recalcitrant daughter, and opening the way to new friendships. If her life is otherwise filled, Gloria's dereliction won't be so badly felt. When the girl realizes she hasn't a doormat for a mother, she'll begin to show appreciation. After all, it has never been expected of her before this!

Dear Miss Dix: Do you believe in love at first sight? I am 18 and in love with a boy I have known only a week. He claims to love me, too. My parents say I couldn't possibly love him in such a short period. What do you think?

GINNY
Answer: Incurable sentimentalist that I am, surely I believe in love at first sight. However, a second look does no harm, and I do urge that you give Cupid a little more time to make sure the arrow sticks.

Dear Miss Dix: My wife passed away six months ago. I'm past 70 and lonely. My children all have homes of their own. I still live in and maintain my old home, and have sufficient income to keep two persons in comfort. I know a very lovely lady who has been a family friend for many years. My children however, say it would be bad taste to marry again so soon.

LONELY
Answer: You have waited a sufficient interval; now all that's necessary is the lady's "yes." I'm

Vincent is kept busy running upstairs placing bets on the next race by the ladies sitting under the dryers. He has thrown away his stock of women's magazines. The girls prefer to study the racing form, the green sheet, the horsemen's journal. They don't gossip about clothes, men or babies. They swap tips on horses.

If ladies have a one-track mind, the mind of these ladies is on the track outside. Some insist that their hairdresser keep a turban handy, so they can wrap it around their heads and rush outside to watch a particularly exciting race.

The beauty parlor staff is fascinated by the betting habits of the women. Some are inveterate students who wouldn't think of laying their money on a horse unless they know his ancestry for three generations—and what he ate for breakfast. Others depend on feminine intuition, dreams, or merely close their eyes and stick a hairpin through the racing program. The systems work out about the same.

The ladies, especially the hunch players, are addicted to daily doubles. Vincent recalls one who won a $1,069 double after finding a 1935 penny on the way into the track. She bet on the No. 5 horses in the first two races.

The "dream" players don't depend merely on their own dreams. They'll bet on anybody's dreams, including those of their chambermaid at the hotel.

Women may like tall, dark and handsome men, but they don't feel that way about horses. They prefer to bet on grey rather than dark horses. No telling what they'd do if there were bald horses.

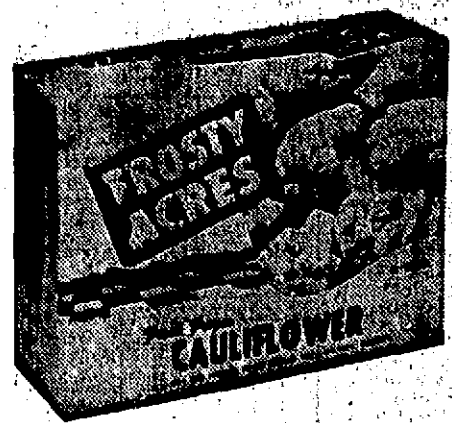

Vincent is an outspoken foe of the pokey tail hair-do. He thinks it's only for the ponies.

The track hair style he is trying to popularize is something he calls "Flamingo cut." It is based on the wing arrangement of those birds that live on salt marshes and like.

One lady liked her new cut, as well as the instant on delivery the realism even further by having her hair tinted pink! Vincent's unusual salon has succeeded so well he now plans to open another beauty parlor soon at one of the northern tracks. It seems he's been getting a lot of good tips himself.

Sale of Cleveland Indians Approved

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sale of the Cleveland Indians for $2,061,000
was approved last night at a meeting of the baseball club's stockholders.

Formally ratifying action club
directors took Feb. 14, the stockholders voted to sell at $1,800 a share to a new company headed by William R. Daley, 63, President of Otis & Co., an investment firm;
Ignatius A. O'Shaughnessy of St.
Paul, president of the Globe Oil
Co., and Hank Greenberg, Tribe
general manager since 1950.

The name of the property will be changed from the Cleveland Baseball Co. to the Cleveland Indians Baseball Co., involved in the sale are the American League Franchise, a 19-year lease for use of Municipal Stadium, players'
contracts, current assets, radio and television contracts, and stock

Class A Eastern League.

The deal represents a profit of around three million dollars to holders who paid $100 a share
for stock when Bill Veeck purchased the club 10 years ago.

Baseball Spring Training Gets Started Today

By BEN OLAN
Of The Associated Press

It's "batter up" for real today
as baseball's spring training session officially gets under way in 18
major league camps.

This one's not going to be any different from the others.
Optimism is rampant.

The rookies are sure to make the grade. The vets are certain to come back with a good year and if you take some predictions at face value, they're liable to have eight first-division clubs in each league this season.

Let's start with the veterans.
Willie Jones, a nine-year man with the Philadelphia Phillies, reports he's in the best shape of his career.

"Just six pounds overweight," he gloated. "I'll be a streamlin' n-d gazelle when the season opens.
Best shape you'll ever see. I'm the Phillies third baseman. Don't forget that."

Dale Mitchell, who's been around even longer than Jones,
showed up in Cleveland's camp
yesterday and worked out at first base.

"Just so I stay in shape. Then maybe they'll use me somewhere," he said.

And in the Chicago Cubs'
quarters in Mesa, Ariz., pitcher Russ Meyer, obtained from Brooklyn during the winter, indicated he was ready to work in one of the intrasquad games this weekend.

This despite some arm trouble he developed earlier this week.

Jim Hearn, Johnny Antonelli and Hoyt Wilhelm, three veteran pitchers, were named to pitch in the New York Giants' first camp game Sunday.

Now for the rookies.
Brow pitcher Jim Brady pitched three more hitless innings
in Lakeland, Fla., and Detroit Manager Bucky Harris called him
"impressive." Brady now has hurled six hitless in camp contests.

Glen Cox, a big right-hander the Kansas City A's bought from Brooklyn, figures his knuckle ball will help him make the grade in the majors. He was 11-5 for Monteal in 1955.

In Vero Beach, Fla., Bob Wilson, 28-year-old outfielder who hit
.317 for Montreal, was touted as the new member most likely to make the Dodgers.

There are 445,000 miles of natural gas pipelines in the United States.

Bobcats Play in Opening Tourney Game Tonight

Coch Wayne Taylor's Hope Bobcats journey to Nashville tonight for a 7 o'clock session with the Ashdown Panthers in the first game of the District 7W Class A basketball tournament.

The Bobcats are favored to get past the Ashdown team. Prescott is the tournament favorite.

The second game of the night
pairs Nashville against Gordon with Prescott drawing a bye. Two semifinal games will be played Friday night with the final contest
Saturday night.

qualifying targets certified by an adult instructor and the National Rifle Association. The Club had 28 of 50 members eligible for competition.

In Shooting for the possible 200,
the Junior Marksman must shoot for a possible 50 from each of the four positions, prone, sitting, kneeling and standing, firing at a one inch bulls eye from 50 ft., with a 10 circle the size of a .22 calibre bullet.

In prone firing, three shooters fired 48 and above which meant placing a .22 bullet in a hole its own size at 50 ft. four out of five shots and missing only 1/16 of an inch with the fifth shot.

Awards will be issued to the first 10 places.

Holman Decisions
Game Joe Rowan

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Big John
Holman, a slow man in the ring
but a fast climber recently in the heavyweight boxing ranks, overpowered Irish Joe Rowan of Philadelphia last night and looked forward to a bout with Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson.

"They promised to give us Jackson next," said Holman's manager, Bernie Glickman, "and if we win that one we should be in line
for a shot at the championship."

Holman, the fourth ranking contender for Rocky Marciano's crown was an easy winner over Rowan
in a nationally televised 10-round fight in Miami's Bayfront Auditorium.

Rowan, a much faster boxer,
took a slight edge in the opening round but the plodding Holman's great advantage in weight and punching power put him in command in the second and he gradually built up a wide margin in points. Holman weighed 203 1/2 pounds, Rowan 182 1/2.

The big Chicago Negro's brutal uppercuts put a quick end to each of Rowan's attempted flurries and at the end the young Philadelphi-

SPECIAL REQUEST
NEW YORK, (UP) — The Esso

ceived a request from the library
at San Quentin prison in California for a pamphlet entitled "Mathematical programming as an Aid to Decision Making."

Esso speculated that maybe someone wanted to figure the Court Comes to the Aid of Sporting Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Matchmaker
Tex Sullivan and his London
Sporting Club put their newly won stay of execution to the test today, applying for approval by the New York State Athletic Commission for a proposed boxing match
March 12 at St. Nick's Arena.

Just 24 hours earlier, Sullivan and the London S. C. appeared to be out of business, effective next Tuesday, under a commission ruling stripping them of their licenses.

But the State Supreme Court,
at Sullivan's petition, intervened
yesterday, granting a stay of enforcement against the commission
order pending a hearing March 13.

Sullivan's petition argued he had been denied "due process" in the commission decision, which also levied a $5,000 fine against the club and Willie Glenberg, its treasurer, who also lost his boxing license.

The commission, headed by Julius Helfand, probably will approve Sullivan's request to stage the March 12 bout between light-weights Carlos Ortiz and Paolo Rosi, unless one of its three members believes it to be a poor match.

At least three possibilities lay ahead at the March 13 hearing:

1. The case may be sent to the Appellate Court for a review of the evidence.

2. The case may be reviewed on the ground the commission's edit was arbitrary and capricious.

3. The case may be dismissed, in effect upholding the commission order.

The centerpiece was artistically arranged with pink glads, white mums and colorful fruit. Mrs. Vernice Hubbard poured coffee. The next meeting will be at the Lawson Hotel on March 13.

Prince Eric Favorite at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — Two front runners in the Inaugural Handicap and Emil Denemark Jr.'s swift 4-year-old colt, Prince Eric, was expected to win today in the $2,800 Trailways purse at Oaklawn Park.

Prince Eric was expected to share the major fan support with H. H. Mundy's Bobbelle, second to Strummer in the Inaugural Handicap, and Elizabeth Mueckler's Lord Henry, third horse in the opening day feature.

Bobbelle was paired as an entry with Henry Forrest's Evening Ember, who was unimpressive in his first Oaklawn start last Monday. However, the track today was much faster than Monday's slow course.

Jockey Tony Skoronski, a veteran of Oaklawn's wars, made the most of a couple of "brats" in yesterday's 9-race card.

He rode March Brat to victory in the $2,700 featured allowance race, and then brought home Spilled Brat in the ninth, a mile and 70 yards event.

March Brat, a 7-year-old campaigner owned by Charles Fritz of Chicago stepped into the lead at the head of the stretch and streaked home along the inside rail to win by three lengths.

Sir Chris set the torrid pace for the 5-horse field to the far left, but faded out at the money line. March Brat started his winning drive.

March Brat, running on the first fast track of the 6-day season, toured the 3/4-mile track in 1:12 flat, and paid $45.00 as the second choice.

THE STORY: Mike Morrison, an American novelist, is in Athens when the German Army invades Greece in 1941. When he visits Stergiou, a lawyer who is to give him an inheritance, he is asked to deliver a letter to London. The letter is a message to British intelligence, but Morrison has no in-

Chapter II

Konrad Heilser leaned back in the broken armchair, closed his eyes and hummed in rapid rhythm to the Bach fugue scratching out on the record player. His finger brushed down his personal line moustache in a motion of habit.

Howe-Wilken and his Scottish partner, Soutar, had made a fool of him twice. Eight months had passed since his first encounter with them in Norway. After the German liberation of that country, the two British agents had arrived and escaped by submarine, leaving in their wake a network of underground operators. A half dozen times they had eluded him. It was only a last-minute quirk of fate that prevented Konrad Heilser from blocking their exit from Norway.

The next time he ran into them was late last summer in Paris. Again the duo, Howe-Wilken and Soutar, led him up a blind alley while they escaped.

The German cursed softly at the thought of having been ordered from Paris to assignment in this cesspool. This time they would not escape.

It had been a stroke of luck, indeed, when Zervos, the government clerk, got wind of Stergiou's plan and made contact with the Germans.

Heilser slipped into Greece ahead of the German invasion and with Zervos' help got the rat pack working with him. The traitors, the opportunists, the cowards. All of them anxious to throw in with the Germans in time. The British were confused, not knowing whom they could trust and whom not to trust. Heilser and his Greek friends had increased that confusion. Soon the confusion would be a stampeding panic.

As the record ran out Konrad Heilser stood up, flicked off the machine and walked to the mirror over the dresser and looked into it, steeped in self-admiration. It was small wonder he felt a glow of accomplishment. No stone had been left unturned. With meticulous thoroughness he knew every move and every plan of the British. Behind woven a web around them from his garret hideaway. How convenient indeed for his two old friends, Howe-Wilken transfer the money."

Heilser walked to the window and stared down at the alley. A mist was beginning to fall. "Go on."

"There is nothing more to say. He has a plane out for London in the morning. He stays at a hotel in Kifissia."

Heilser mumbled half to himself. "It would be like Wilken and Soutar to pass off the list. A neutral above suspicion . . . their plane at Tatol a blind . . ."

Monison was completely unaware of the tall thin blond man wearing a New Zealand uniform who picked up his tail the instant he left the attorney's mansion. Nor was he aware of the half dozen pairs of eyes focused upon the house from points of observation nearby. Mike walked through the plush Kolonaki sector toward Concord Square across town, drawing his topcoat about his neck against the mist.

A flood of uneasiness hit Mike. He counted the long hours ahead till dawn when he would be winging toward London. For several moments Mike stood and looked in all directions contemplating the best way to kill the afternoon. The National Museum was closed and its treasures removed. He looked down Athena Street to its end and saw the rise of the Acropolis. No, he did not want to go there again. Rather silly, not wanting to sight-see, but his few side trips had left him depressed, for Ellie was not there.

He began to wander, hands in pockets, along Aeolus Street where the conglomeration of food in the sidewalk stalls sent up a sickening odor.

The next intersection brought an onrush of British troops from the camp at Kokinia. Then Morrison's eye caught a sign he could read in any language.

The saloon was half-empty and the stock at rock bottom. A choice of two types of krasi. He stood at the far end of the bar, and after the first sip was thankful his long tenure as an unpublished writer hadn't given him the opportunity to cultivate a taste for fine liquors.

About three-quarters of the way through the bottle of krasi, the noise in the place seemed to fade. He banished his rambling thoughts about his children, whom he missed terribly, and quickly diverted his mind to guessing what was in the envelope and what kind of shady deal Mr. Stergiou was mixed up in. He overcame the temptation to open the envelope for a quick peek and instead wove a half dozen different plots about its contents.

"Mind if I sit down?"

Mike looked up into the face of the tall blond man in New Zealand uniform. He glanced toward the bar; it was three deep. He nodded to the man.

"Bit crowded there . . . Mosley's the name, Jack Mosley — First New Zealand Rifles." The latter continued to open his bottle.

"Night as well finish this one first" Mike said, pouring.

"You're an American, aren't you?"

Mike balked. The answer often led to an argument. "Yes, I'm an American."

"Good. I like Americans. What the devil are you doing in Greece these days?"

Mike's tongue loosened as they started on Mosley's bottle of krasi.

"And what line of business are you in Morrison?"

It was a question he dreaded. When a person meet a writer there is an expectant glow, as though he had run into Hemingway or Faulkner. It always embarrasses the nonprofessional when he has never heard of the writer.

"Morrison — of course, forgive me," Mosley said. "I enjoyed 'Home Is the Hunter' very much — splendid book."

"Really? Well, have another glass of wine, my friend."

Mike covered a great deal of ground, from literature to wars to San Francisco to Greece to music. In fact, there was very little he didn't cover. The subjects began to overlap one another, then run into one another.

Finally Mosley spilled Morrison into a cab and waved as Mike poked his head out of the window.

"They don't make them like you any more . . ."

As Mike's cab turned the corner, an automobile U-turned and stopped at the curb where Mosley waited. He opened the door and hopping in.

"Shall we follow him?" the driver asked.

"No — we'll rejoin Zervos."

"What about the American?" Mosley smiled and stretched back. "Let the fool go. If he is a British agent, I'm Winston Churchill."

Wreck Rash Disturbs Military

By ELYON S. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A rash of military plane crashes — without any apparent pattern of cause — is giving the Air Force considerable concern.

Since early January, 28 aircraft have crashed in seven air accidents, not including crashes of jet fighters in routine operation and training flights.

These crashes have involved some of the oldest and newest planes used by the Air Force — a B-24 Liberator and a B-52 jet bomber, for example.

Officials decline to disclose the exact number of accidents. They contend this information would be valuable to Russia.

But according to published news accounts:

A B-24 bomber caught fire as it landed at Edwards Air Force Base, S.D., Jan. 4. The crew escaped. An F-101 Voodoo, one of the "flying" series of supersonic jet fighters, crashed Jan. 10 at Eglin AFB, Fla., killing the pilot.

A B-52, newest, biggest and fastest of the heavy bombers, came apart in the air near Tracy, Calif., Feb. 15. Four men parachuted to safety and four died. A KC-97 cargo plane crashed on takeoff near Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 21, killing five men.

A C-47 crashed into a mountain peak in Spain Feb. 24. Three died, three survived. On Feb. 27 there were two crashes — a B-50 bomber near Dayton, Ohio, kill-

Around the World

SANTIAGO, Chile, (UP)—President Carlos Ibanez yesterday ordered four cabinet ministers to purge his administration of all Communist elements.

LONDON, (UP)—A Moscow radio commentator said last night the April visit of the two top Soviet leaders to Britain would have "a big positive influence" on Anglo-Soviet relations and the general international situation.

CATANIA, Sicily, (UP)—Residents of Catania kept a wary eye today on Mt. Etna which rumbled into action yesterday, showering lava and ashes over its snow cap and emitting flames which could be seen 20 miles away.

ing 11 men; a B-47 medium jet bomber near Sedalia, Mo., killing four.

There were close calls, also, like the C-124 which limped to Iceland with engine trouble.

Because there seems to be no immediately discernible pattern in this upsurge of accidents, officials are hesitant about pointing to possible causes. They mention many things that happen in civilian as well as military flying — things like pilot deficiencies. They talk about "unairworthy" airports and navigational aids.

They mention too a growing shortage of experienced maintenance personnel. Air Force mechanics find better paying jobs in industry.

And these officials wonder if there shouldn't be more money available to buy fuel to allow more flying time for pilots.

Negro Woman Renews Fight in Alabama

By BEM PRICE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Authorine Lucy today renews her court struggle to crack Alabama's rigid segregation barriers.

For Federal Judge H. Hobart Grooms the basic question is whether the 26-year-old Negro, a former schoolteacher, should be returned to the all-white University of Alabama campus at Tuscaloosa. A mob drove her off the campus Feb. 6.

The Lucy case has assumed enormous significance here as a test of the federal court's willingness to insist on compliance with its orders despite the state's powerful, pro-segregation sentiments and customs.

In Montgomery, Gov. James E. Folsom again said he would maintain law and order at the university regardless of the outcome of the hearing.

"I don't expect trouble," he said. "I expect the good old laws of common sense to prevail." Then he added: "I want all the mothers and fathers of students at the university to know, I am doing all in my power to keep their children from getting hurt."

For 29 months Miss Lucy has sought the right to be educated at the 125-year-old university, once a training school for Confederate officers.

With the aid of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People she fought the case through to the U.S. Supreme Court and won. Last July 1 Judge Grooms ordered her admission as a student. She enrolled for the mid-term semester, but when she actually tried to attend classes she was met by an egg-and-rock-throwing mob of 3,000.

In the wake of the riot the university's Board of Trustees barred her from the campus "for her own safety."

Miss Lucy's attorney Arthur D. Shores promptly sought contempt of court proceedings against 13 officers and trustees of the university and four men identified only as members of the mob.

In addition, Shores has asked that the dean of women, Sarah Healy, be ordered to provide Miss Lucy with a dormitory room and permit her to use the dining facilities.

In a last-minute move yesterday, the legal situation was further complicated by attorneys for the university officials, who asked that each defendant be tried separately and before a jury.

Among the 17 defendants are William F. Adams, dean of admissions; University President Oliver C. Carmichael; and Thomas S. Lawson, a trustee and associate justice of the Alabama Supreme Court.

Trade statisticians say the U. S. auto wash business had 100 million customers last year and took in 120 million dollars.

A recent study indicates that errors made by typists increase from an average of 11 per hour to more than 95 per hour when the temperature rises from 78 to 96 degrees.

Finds Guiding Movie Stars Is Not Easy

By OB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD 14—The least envied man among film directors is David Miller, who has the touchy task of guiding 11 actresses in a movie about women.

Miller, 25-year veteran of film making despite his youngish looks, is directing "The Opposite Sex." It's a modern, musicalized version of "The Women," written by the ambassador to Italy, Clare Booth Luce. Now well into the shooting, Miller says his dolls are happy as claims.

Such was not the case in the first filming of the play (1939). It starred such high-powered people as Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, Joan Fontaine, etc. Reports are that the queens would vie to see who could arrive on the set last.

The new version has such figures as June Allyson, Ann Sheridan, Joan Collins, Dolores Gray, Ann Miller, Joan Blondell, Vivienne Segal, Barbara Jo Allen, Vera Vague and Alice Pearce.

"We haven't had any problems," remarked director Miller, not even pausing to knock on wood. "All the girls have been as nice as they can be."

"Of course, I took pains to see that there would be no cause for irritation. In the matter of wardrobe, the finest of fabrics and designs were chosen for each of them. Each was asked if she was satisfied with her clothes, and efforts were made to follow whatever suggestions they had." "Before production started," Miller added, "I had them come to my office individually and rehearse their parts. I wanted them to understand and be satisfied with their characterizations. In a picture with so many characters, you're apt to lose sight of some of them if they're not firmly in mind beforehand." "Actresses sometimes blow up if they find another star has a bigger dressing room," Miller said. "I solved that by ordering 11 dressing rooms all the same size."

"Far from having friction, the girls have done everything to get along. You'd think there would be an uneasy situation because of Allyson and Blondell having been married to the same man (Dick Powell). But there isn't," Miller said.
